Chapter 1

Every so often naturally occurring Subspace Corridors open in our Solar System

They happen as a result of subspace distortions between massive gravitational bodies such as large planets, which are in Macroscopic Quantum Resonance with each other. Because of the Non-Local nature of these Quantum Resonance Fields these Subspace Corridors can open across star systems.

I have known of these Subspace Corridors since 2013 and I solved them in physics in 2016. That combined with my access to Borg computers via the neural implants in my head allow me to predict exactly where and when these Subspace Corridors will open.

It is through these corridors that the Borg plan to hit us.

I can predict where and I can predict when

The Subspace Corridors are narrow. In that narrow corridor when they come out their numbers will count for nothing. When they come out of Hyperspace they will arrive into the mouth of hell itself, for we will meet them with the fires of Armageddon.

We'll be able to track them through the Subspace Corridors by the subspace distortions they leave in their wake. Similar to tracking a ship by its wake. We'll be able to predict to the second when they come out of Hyperspace.

It takes a lot of power to go through the Subspace Corridor. According to the Borg tactical databases that I have hacked their defensive systems and weapon systems will be down for 42 seconds when they come out of Hyperspace. The time it takes to switch power from the engines to the weapon and defensive systems. It is in these 42 seconds that we will meet them with the fires of Armageddon.

That is my plan.

Now, I simply need to present my plan for consideration.
