

Jean Grey

Part I

By Gráinne Caoimhe Aoife Sorcha Nic an tSídhe

Aka Ciarán Handley

11th September 2018

The War of the Ring

Chapter 1

The Will to Resist It

According to the Borg archives I have hacked, no one in the history of the Borg Empire, not since the early days, has been able to resist assimilation. No one.

I am the first to be able to resist it. Why me? What gave me this ability? It was depth of consciousness. My ability to dig really, really deep. It is because of what happened to me when I was three and a half years old. My attempts to heal what happened has taken me deeper into the mind than anyone in history. It has made me Professor X.

But it is not just that. What happened to me when I was three shattered my psyche and opened a doorway deep within my consciousness. It has enabled me to go very, very deep. But it is not just that. That rift into my psyche was opened deeper by what later happened to me in school.

Between the ages of seven and eleven I was repeatedly raped in school

No-one knew. My parents did not know. No-one knew. I never spoke of it. My only way of dealing with it was to repress it. To tell myself it never happened. That coping strategy that I developed as a child is what has led to my memory blanks all through my life. It is part of what has made me Jason Borne.

Corporal Punishment was not banned in Ireland until the mid 1980s, so it was still practiced when I was in primary school. It most certainly was practiced in the all-boys primary school that I attended, run by priests. One lay-teacher was a breath of fresh air. A woman. With her there were no problems. But apart from that it was a very tough school.

No-one knew. My parents did not know. I never spoke of it. The school was a private school and came recommended. My parents paid the fees to the school thinking that it was a very good school.

No-one knew. My parents did not know. I never spoke of it.

Four walls, One faith, No identity

This is where I developed the depth of will to say No

This is where I developed a depth of Knighthood. I achieved Rank of Knight at six years old in that school. Most men never achieve this rank in their lifetimes.

The rapes lasted between the ages of seven and eleven, when I was taken out of that school. It was brutal but it had a very powerful effect on forging my character. It made me a powerful knight, for I vowed to take a stand wherever I saw rape. I knew that this obscenity must end. That is what made me such a powerful Knight.

It forged in me a very strong ability to say No to rape. Assimilation of the mind by the Borg is a rape of the mind. It is very difficult to counter. But I have the ability to say No to rape at a very deep level.

This is why I can resist it.

This is where I developed the strength to resist the One Ring.

The War of the Ring

Chapter 2

The Will to Resist It

– Part II

My achieving the Tao in December 2012 triggered the war with the Borg

The way I look at it we were already at war the moment they abducted the first of us and put the first implants into us. The war that exploded in late 2012 was different however in that when I achieved the Tao, which is Ascension, I could then challenge them directly.

The Borg responded with assimilation. I should explain first that the Borg never knew who was behind the war with them. Not for years. They knew someone was masterminding it, but they did not know who. Not until I had the viruses coded deep into them and it was too late. They only found out who I was a few months ago, after more than five years of war. But by the stage they found out, it was too late.

The Borg computers picked up that my mind was breaking free of their control and they responded automatically by initiating further assimilation

But at no stage did they suspect that I was the Mastermind in the war against them. For a start they considered humanity too primitive. They thought it must come from one of the genetically hybridised races, like the Small Greys. (I have a different concept of what it means to be primitive to the Borg. To my eyes the Small Greys are barbarians. Primitive in all ways except technology.)

As well as that I used every trick in the book to conceal my identity. I am very, very used to staying below the radar. I hacked security ids, forged log entries and set up the equivalent of dummy corporations in the Borg Empire, all via the neural interface in my head. When attacking the Borg networks with viruses I hack into their networks via dummy corporations, fake ids, forged logs and every trick I can pull. For over five years it worked. Only when I had them over a barrel with the viruses did I reveal my identity to them a number of months ago. This was to implement a Treaty that I spent three years in extremely hostile negotiations setting up.

We are a number of months into the Treaty implementation now, which is why I am able to get these documents out. Just about. The Treaty does not give us the Republic. It gives us a Free State. But this gives us the freedom to achieve freedom.

It triggers the next phase of the war. We will get our freedom.

But we will have to fight for it.

The Borg response to my mind breaking free of their control was to automatically initiate further assimilation

Each time they tried to assimilate me further I broke through their blocks. And so they assimilated me further. And so I broke through their blocks again. And so they assimilated me further. And so on it went.

This is how I have over 800 implants in my body. The degree of assimilation in me is extreme. Yet I have been able to turn it against them for the door swings both ways. I have been able to use this high degree of assimilation to give me unprecedented access to the Borg computers. With me the Borg created a monster. I direct my fury and rage against the Borg Empire via the implants.

Most of my mind has been assimilated. I shut those parts of my mind down to protect against them, which does make me very emotionally repressed. But there is a part of my mind deep inside that they cannot touch. In my mind I see this as an oasis of calm, the eye of a hurricane, surrounded by raging fury. All around me the winds rage, spinning around me. I live within the vortex. Within the eye of the hurricane. Within this storm the screaming never stops. It is fury. It is rage. It is the monster that the Borg created.

But within the storm there is the eye of the hurricane. A part of me that is still sane, for I know that the rest of my mind lives in insanity. That is why I lock it down. Most of my mind is currently lost to me. I write to you now from that one corner of my mind that they have not been able to take.

*This is the eye of the hurricane.
That part of my mind that is free.*

It is Annika, a part of Seven's mind, a memory, that was free from the Borg.

It is that part of my mind that learned to say No as a child.

These past five and a half years have been a constant battle between myself and the Borg for control of my mind. The war in my mind never stops. At all times I hear the Borg. At all times the attempt to reprogram my psyche through the implants is relentless.

My war for control of my mind has helped me to develop phenomenal control of my mind. Which is why I get furious with psychologists in their misunderstanding of basic principles of mental health. No-one understands mental health like I do, because of my daily battle with the Borg which has raged for years to maintain sanity of my mind. I do have phenomenal control of my mind. I can control it.

But the battle back and forth never ceases.

TNG Picard handles Sarek's emotions

This is what has continuously developed my ability to withstand the One Ring.

This is how I have the Will to resist it.

Jean Grey

Chapter 1

The Borg created the monster

I am Jean Grey. Most of my mind is currently insane. I have locked those parts down until I can find a way to heal them. The rest of my mind is sane. I can control it.

Kind of.

The Hulk \(2003\) – Theatrical Trailer

Jean Grey

End of Part I