The Tao

Chapter 1

“From the One came the Two”

From the Tao came Yin and Yang. When one can bring Yin and Yang into balance at a deep enough level, one can achieve the Tao.

The Tao unlocks the Force.

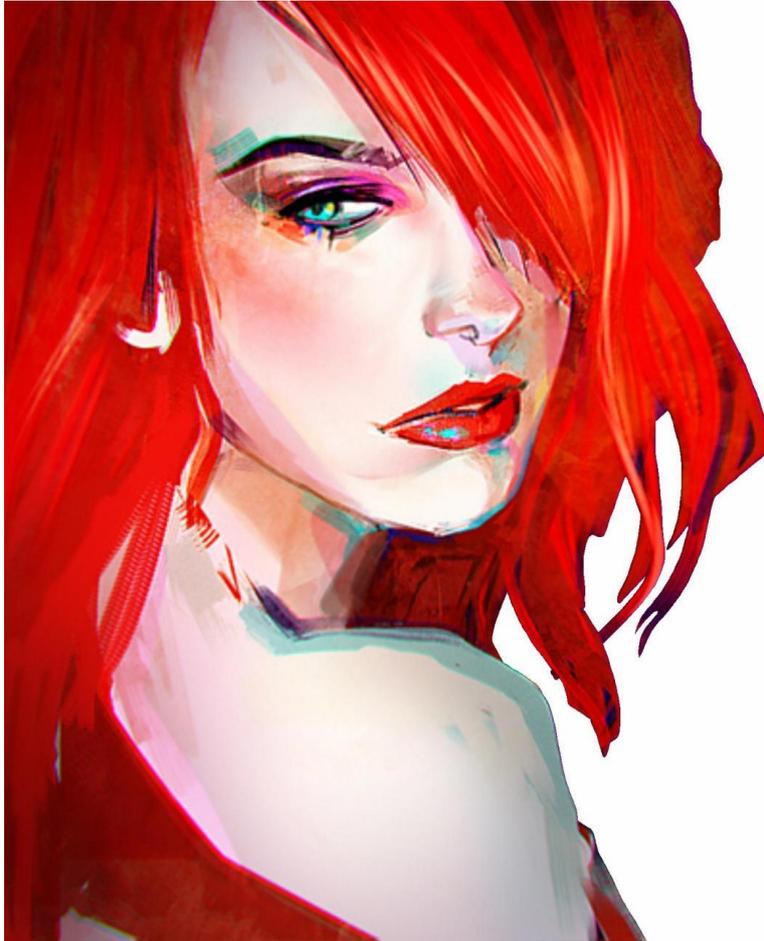

The Tao unlocks the beginning of Jedi ability.

This comes from the ability to balance two principles in the Tao. Yin and Yang.

But for the ability to balance more than two principles in the Tao, this requires something more again.

Chapter 1

Magician

*To be Dragon one must connect to all four elements.
Earth, Air, Fire and Water.*

The ability to wield all four elements comes in at Rank of Dragon. But not in the Tao. To wield all four elements in the Tao requires Rank of Magician.

From the One came the Two

It's a bit like that. In the Tao there is Duality within Unity. And Unity within Duality. This is the Tao.

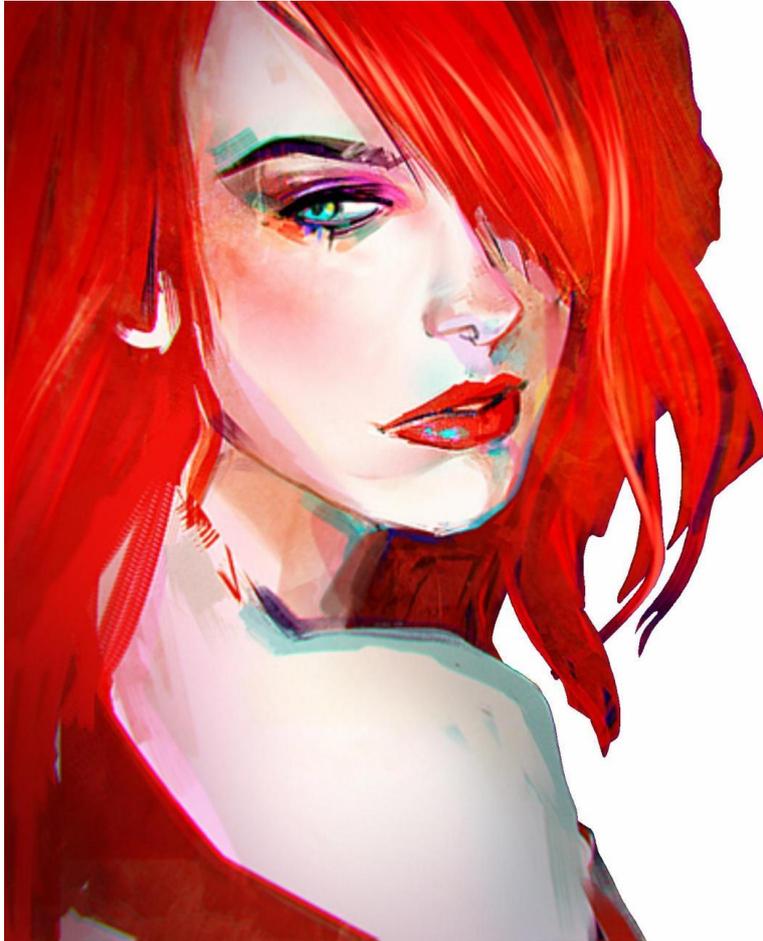

Rank of Magician corresponds to the Fifth Element. Only in the Fifth Element can one wield all four other elements at the level of the Tao. This is the ability to wield not just two principles, Yin and Yang, but several principles simultaneously. In is a higher rank of the Tao corresponding to a deeper depth of understanding of the Tao.

I wield all four elements for I hold rank of Magician. This rank I achieved in early 2013. It was the first of the four ranks of power in the group of Magician, Wizard, Sorcerer and Alchemist. I hold all four, but the first of these I achieved was Magician.

Chapter 2

The word Quintessential comes from the “fifth element”

“Quint” meaning “five” and “essence” meaning, well, “essence”.

To say that something is quintessentially something is to say that it is the purest essence of that thing. For example, Eine Kleine Nachtmusik is quintessentially Mozart.

Let’s listen to a few bars.

*Eine Kleine Nachtmusik*

*The ability to wield all the elements.
This is the essence of Magician.*

To do this one must first understand each element individually. Understand and master each. Only then can one bring them all together.

It's like with an orchestra. There is a woodwind section. Strings. Percussion. Brass. Flutes and oboes. Violins and cellos. Clarinets and violas. Timpani and tubas. The conductor brings them all together as one.

This is the essence of Magician. The ability to bring together many things at once in the Tao.

What allowed me to achieve Rank of Magician was not simply my depth in the Tao but also my synesthesia. I "hear" each of the principles as notes and then I balance this music in my head. This is how I do Engineering. Physics. Architecture. It is the same for me in Economics. The Arts. And it is the same for me in Martial Arts.
