

The Road to Taoiseach

Part I

By Ciarán Handley

19th November 2018

The Road to Taoiseach

Chapter 1

Welcome my Lords to Isengard

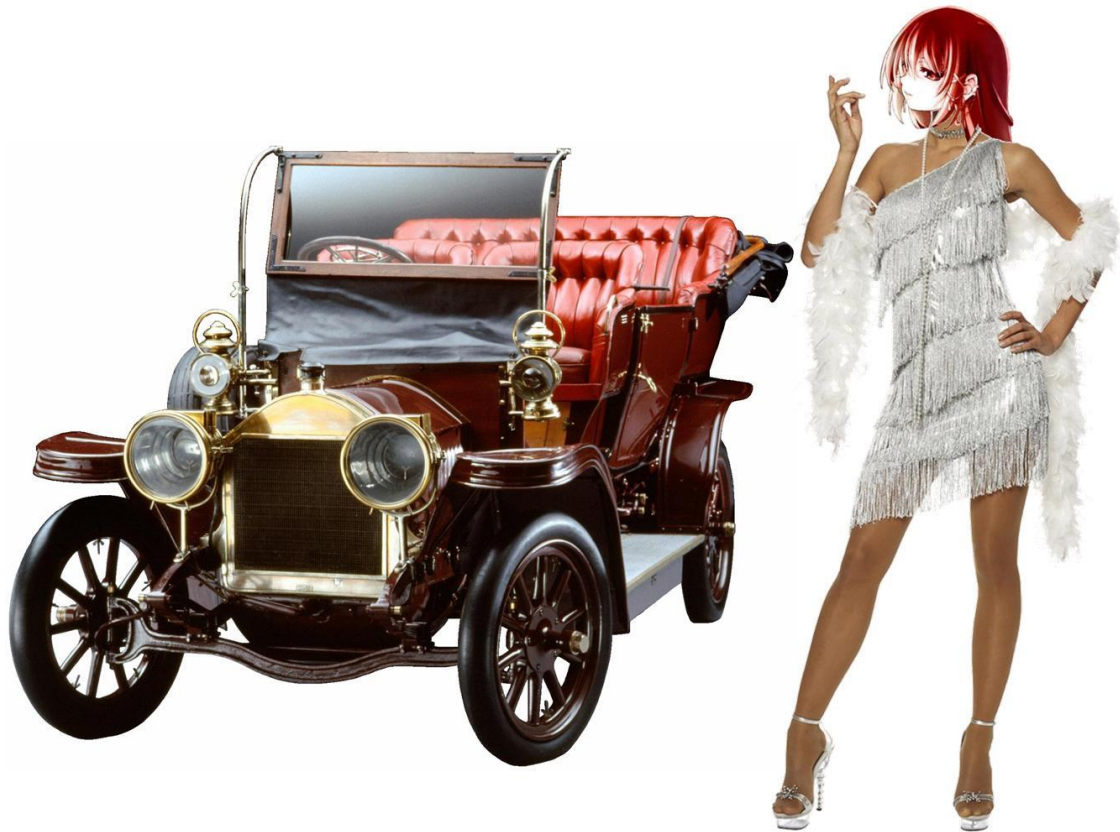

Right now I'm unemployed. More used to putting my feet up than a hard day's work.

But I do intend to run for Taoiseach. And to take over management of the Dáil.
I do intend to be the next Taoiseach of Ireland.

Welcome my Lords to Isengard

The Road to Taoiseach

Chapter 2

The scouts report that Ireland is a mess

If I were a politician, capable of passing bills in the Dáil. But I'm not. I'm an unemployed person.

I just want to help my country. The Economy. The Irish Language. The Space Industry. More than anything I wish I could see my country restored again.

I just want to help my country

The Road to Taoiseach

Chapter 3

For 1,000 years Dublin has stood

We held our Millennium celebrations in 1988. This is actually a picture of Carcassonne in the South of France. A tiered city. A bit like Minas Tirith. I couldn't find a right picture of Dublin. Which is a Northern Kingdom. A bit like Numenor. To the West. It is where Men and Women of the West live.

This is why I make my bid for Taoiseach. For I would see my country restored.

Decline of Gondor

The Road to Taoiseach

Chapter 4

How many have come?

To set up my political party, it's just me for now. Less than half of what I had hoped for. None have come from Tipperary yet. Or from Clare. Or Donegal. Or Leitrim. Or actually from anywhere. Not yet. One person will not be enough to contest the elections.

But I think more will come.

Marshalling at Dunharrow

The Road to Taoiseach

End of Part I