The Road to Taoiseach

Chapter 1

I hold two bank accounts in the same bank

One as Ms. Gráinne Caoimhe Nic an tSídhe and one as Mr. Ciarán Handley.

I hold a passport as Ciarán Handley and a driver's licence as Gráinne Nic an tSídhe.

I haven't worked or earned money for years but I am registered with the Revenue Commissioners as Ms. Gráinne Caoimhe Nic an tSídhe. How?

Shawshank Redemption – Randall Stephens

When I come in as Taoiseach I will be working to introduce Dual Identity for any Irish citizen who wishes it

This is very, very important. If a man is truly transgendered then this should be recognised by the State. As such he should be allowed to have a female passport, driver's licence and bank accounts, and he should be able to register with the Revenue Commissioners in the female.

However transgendered for a man is to do with wishing to be female. This is completely different to being transsexual, which is to do with being with men. That is a completely opposite path. If a man is transgendered and has a sexual preference only for women then he should not be put in a position where he is compromised by men coming on to him. In other words he should be able to go about in public as a man. If he cannot do this then society is forcing a transsexual influence on him when it is not in his nature to be with men.

It is unethical to force transsexuality on a man if this is not in his nature

Therefore a man should be free to dress as a woman for women but to keep that part of himself separate when in public or when meeting men. Otherwise his gender preference – to be female – is being confused with something completely different, which is sexual preference.

*For a man, transgendered and transsexual are actually opposite paths

Only in the Tao is it possible for a man to switch his gender to female. This does not mean physically changing his body. Rather it means switching his psyche to female. Only in the Tao can a man achieve the depth of consciousness to do this.

I am the first in history to achieve the Tao. Which makes me the first transgendered person in history. All male to female transsexuals, all of them, are actually male.

Psychologists have got this completely wrong

Psychologists have not made a distinction between gender preference – what gender one wishes to be, and sexual preference – what sex one wishes to be with.

Understanding this distinction is at the most basic rudimentary level for understanding gender. Without understanding this distinction a psychologist is not qualified to work with gender issues.

Which means that if one wants to understand gender issues, don't talk to psychologists. They don't understand it. Psychologists encourage men who wish to be women to become homosexual because psychologists do not understand that gender preference and sexual preference are completely different. As such many, many men who have a natural sexual preference to be with women become homosexual, even though it is against their natural inclination, because their desire to be women is so strong that it overrides their natural sexual preference. They wish to be women so much that they will even become homosexual to be women, for they mistakenly believe that being with men will take them a step closer to womanhood. Psychologists actively encourage this mistaken belief.

This has been completely misunderstood. If a man wants to be a woman his strongest path to achieve this is to be a woman to women, not to men. And to ensure that his desire to being a woman is kept completely separate from his interactions with men.

If you want to understand gender issues don't talk to Mr. Slate. He doesn't understand it.

Talk to me instead.

Psychologists do not recognise that a man cannot be the same as a natural-born woman

Can a man be truly female? Yes. This is possible in the Tao. He can switch his psyche, emotions and energy field to female. This is possible. But even though this can be truly female this is not the same as natural-born female.

Just as a man can have a female orgasm. Female by virtue if it being internalised and yin. But this is not the same as a natural-born woman's orgasm.

A man can spread his legs and have sex as a woman. But this is not the same as a woman spreading her legs having sex as a woman. The anatomy is different. It is ludicrous to say that they are the same.

Just as it is ludicrous to say that a man being a woman is the same as a natural-born woman being a woman. To say this is to demonstrate the most basic lack of understanding of gender.

Yes a man can live as a woman. But it must be recognised that he is not the same as a natural-born woman and so this must be taken into account. A different set of rules must apply. Even if he lives as a woman his psyche, emotions, physical body – these are not the same as a natural-born woman's and this must be respected.

The solution? Recognise a completely separate distinct female sex. So we now have two female sexes. For the first time in history, as a result of me achieving the Tao.

*I may not look it, but I am truly female.
The first man in history to achieve it.*

I am the first in history to achieve it. But that is not the same as natural-born female.

A transsexual can switch parts of his psyche to female. Perhaps up to about 20 %. But no more. Not as a transsexual. Transsexuality does not incorporate Duality because a transsexual man rejects his male in order to try to be more female. This blocks Duality, for only by embracing both the male and the female can one achieve the Tao. This means that it is not possible for a transsexual to achieve true female, for he cannot achieve true Duality if he rejects the male.

My path has been different, for my path is one of Duality, This has allowed me to cross a threshold, in December 2012, where my psyche became more female than male by default. Take it that my psyche is about 52 % female and 48 % male. I am more female than male and so by default I am truly female. But many parts of my psyche are still male. Both aspects go very deep in me because of depth of consciousness. This is to do with the depth of the Tao, which is a deeper state than Enlightenment. When I am female I am strongly female. When I am male I am strongly male. Both are very strong in me but female is dominant.

This makes me female by default, the first man in history to achieve it. But it would be crazy to say that I am the same as a natural-born woman. It is different.

My achieving the Tao has unlocked something new for the first time in history. A new sex, because the female of a new woman man is so different to that of a natural-born woman that it must be considered separately. So we must now add a new female sex. There is the female of a natural-born woman. And there is the female of a man who has switched his psyche to female in the Tao. Which is also true female.

The psyche of a natural-born woman leading a man as her woman will be very different to the psyche of other natural-born women

For a natural-born woman, leading a man as her woman will open Duality in her too. There is a path for natural-born women to achieve the Tao as X-Girls. Natural-born women X-Girls. For women who take this path something profound will switch in their psyches when they switch to seeing it as the role and place of men to spread their legs for them as their women. This will profoundly switch the psyche of these natural-born women. They will see it as completely normal for men to be their women.

These natural-born women will still be women and they will still live and dress as women. But something will have shifted in their psyche to such an extent that they would have to be seen as a new sex. A new female sex. Because their psyches will be very, very different to the psyches of other women.

This means that there will be four distinct sexes in Golden Age. Three female and one male. A female and a male psyche are possible for a man and two female psyches are possible for women. But all three female psyches have to be considered separately because there are very profound differences in all three.

All three are female. But all three are different.

Understand?

If a man has a preference to be transgendered then he should be free to express himself as a woman

But if he is not homosexual then he should not be put into a position where his desire to express himself as a woman puts him in a compromised position with men. His desire to wear a dress should not force the unwelcome sexual attentions of men. His desire to wear a skirt should not put pressure on him to become transsexual.

The law in Ireland currently forces men into a position where they are pressured into becoming homosexual if they want to dress as women. The law does not recognise Duality and so it forces the man to dress as a woman even when in public if he wishes to be legally recognised as having a preference to gender female. This forces the sexual attentions of men on a man who may well be heterosexual, but who wishes to wear a dress and follow the path of womanhood.

I wish to live as a woman but I have absolutely zero interest in being with men. I would never allow myself to be compromised by being forced into a position where I am exposed to the sexual advances of men, simply because I wish to be female.

I am woman to women. Not to men.

When I come in as Taoiseach I will be move to change legislation to allow Dual Identity – female and male, for any Irish citizen who wishes it. Any Irish citizen who wishes it could have two legal names. One female and one male. Two passports. One female and one male. Two sets of bank accounts. One female and one male. Two driver's licences. One female and one male.

Each of the two identities would link into the same PPS number so the government would know that Gráinne Nic an tSídhe and Ciarán Handley are one and the same.

That way when I met the girls I am Gráinne. When I meet the guys I am Ciarán.

And this choice is respected by the government.

Understand?
