The Impulse Drive Engine Chapter 1

The idea for the Impulse Drive Engine came to me in 2014

A radical new concept in space engine design. But I did not know how to implement it until 2016. Only then did it become viable. I refined the designs through to 2018. Now the designs are complete. I could build it right now. Effortlessly.

The power of the engine would be inconceivable compared to anything in existence. If built it would be by far and away the most powerful engine ever seen. Nothing else would come even close. It is true that circumstances have forced me to deny this engine to humanity. (Because of attempts to steal my research. Better to deny it to humanity than to see it misused.) However I can give you a feel for it.

If you get this clip, you have some sense of Impulse Drive.
